Direct quotation
A description of the trial explains that, “In June 1961, a burglary occurred at the Bay Harbor Pool Room in Panama City, FL. Police arrested Clarence Earl Gideon after he was found nearby with a pint of wine and some change in his pockets. Gideon, who could not afford a lawyer, asked a Florida Circuit Court judge to appoint one for him arguing that the Sixth Amendment entitles everyone to a lawyer. The judge denied his request and Gideon was left to represent himself.”

Paraphrase or summary
According to Landmark Cases of the Supreme Court, Clarence Earl Gideon was denied representation by an attorney. He was charged with robbery in June 1961 but could not afford an attorney. Gideon had to be his own lawyer.

This source shows a possible bias because Gideon was not given a lawyer even though he was too poor to afford one. We all deserve to be treated fairly in the legal system no matter how much money we have.
